Program Description

The Center for Youth and Family Investment (CYFI) is a proven and sound education change agent that leverages the research in the field to help ensure that our program design and implementation speak to the data. When administered with full efficacy, the CYFI model produces student gains. In SY 07-08, CYFI provided SES services for the first time in the District of Columbia. Our program produced gains in English and Math at both the Elementary and Middle School levels as 75% of the students showed gains of 10%-20% across all grades. CYFI utilizes a three-tier scientific-based intervention model, a RTI-SS model adopted from the FPG Child Development Institute at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, to meet students' subject content needs. CYFI's RTI/SS implements the following components: (1) the intervention hierarchy; (2) screening, assessment, and progress monitoring; and (3) reserached-based curriculum, instruction, and interventions. Each will be assessed within the first 180 minutes of service and have an Individualized Student Service Plan (ISSP) within the next 120 minutes of services, the first 5 hours of instruction will be used to assess, "Data Talk," and develop the ISSP. The ISSP provides parents, administrators, and classroom teachers, with important information about student achievement and skills status. As a part of the CYFI SES program model, all students will begin with the Tier 1 core Reading and Math programs and after the first 15 hours of instruction, CYFI will administer Progress monitoring assessments, which guide the "Data Talk" process and the review of the progress of master of the skill gaps outlined in the Individualized Student Service Plan (ISSP). During the "Data Talk," the CYFI instructor, the regular classroom teacher, the student and the parent will collaboratively review the data. Ultimately, the CYFI model makes both parents and students active participants in our community of participatory decision-making.
